A virtual disayowal that a Germa submarine had anything to do with the sinking is contained in a wireless espatch received to-day from Ber in, which reads as follows:

"According to the reports so far at hand the Britannic was proceeding from England to Salonica. For a journey in this direction the large number of persons on board was extraordinarily striking and justifies a strong suspicton of the misuse of a hospital ship for transport purposes.

"Inasmuch as the ship bore the distinguishing marks of a hospital ship in accordance with regulations there can naturally be no question of a German submarine in connection with the sinking

All the New York evening papers yesterday printed a story cabled to London from Athens by a British correspondent, de-claring that the Britannic had been torpedoed and sunk by a submarine. The correspondent declared that two U-boats fired torpedoes. This story was passed by the British gensor, and no inti-mation was sent from London until last evening that it had been officially announced that the hospital ship was actually sunk by a
